

Megabit Macros

Examples for Name-Splitting Macros

These macros are designed to copy a string of names from a bibliography, invert the name order if needed, and split them up into individual entries in your indexing program. They do not cover every possible bibliographic format, only the ones that have been requested so far.

Section I: String of Names in Normal Name Order

All four of the following patterns use the same keyboard shortcuts:

Normal Name order, initials, no periods* JE Smith, JD Howlton, MD Grouch, MS Berger, CA Viola, and EJ Lesson BH Obama and WJ Clinton	Result in indexing program (separate entries): Smith, JE          Howlton, JD          Grouch, MD          Berger, MS          Viola, CA          Lesson, EJ Obama, BH          Clinton, WJ
